FAQs

- 1 Why did the Southern states secede? The Southern states seceded primarily because of their fear that the incoming administration of Abraham Lincoln, a Republican, opposed to the expansion of slavery, would threaten their way of life. They believed Lincoln's election signaled a shift in the balance of power, jeopardizing their economic and social system built upon slave labor.
- 2 What was the significance of the Compromise of 1850? The Compromise of 1850 aimed to appease both North and South by addressing key issues like slavery in newly acquired territories and the Fugitive Slave Act. While it offered temporary relief, it failed to address the fundamental issue of slavery's legality, ultimately fueling further division and resentment.
- 3 How did the Kansas-Nebraska Act contribute to the Civil War? The Kansas-Nebraska Act allowed residents of those territories to decide whether to allow slavery through popular sovereignty. This sparked violent conflict between proslavery and antislavery groups in Kansas, known as Bleeding Kansas, highlighting the deeply entrenched divisions over slavery.
- 4 What were the key differences between the North and South? The North, with its industrialized economy and growing urban centers, opposed slavery. The South, largely agrarian and reliant on slave labor, defended it. These contrasting economic systems and societal values, along with differing views on states' rights, led to fundamental disagreements that fueled the Civil War.
- 5 What were the immediate consequences of the Civil War's beginning? The firing on Fort Sumter marked the start of the Civil War, igniting a bloody conflict that would last for four years. It divided the nation, shattered families, and left a lasting legacy on the American landscape. The war's devastating impact on both North and South would have far-reaching consequences for the country's future.
